

THE SOCIETY FOR ARCHAEOLOGICAL SCIENCES

Membership Report 2013

Michael Gregg

Current membership of the Society for Archaeological Sciences is 238.

55 of these are lifetime members; 2 are institutional subscriptions.

This is a 14% decrease from May 2012.

263 individuals or institutions initiated or renewed memberships in 2012.

Email notification and a subsequent reminder were sent to all members requesting renewals late in 2012.

185 individuals and institutions currently on SAS membership roles have yet to renew their memberships for 2013.

Additional email renewal requests will be sent to these potential members along with an announcement for the Student Research International Travel Award (which will also be forwarded to members).

SAS General Secretary Rob Sternberg anticipates that his participation in the local organizing committee for ISA 2014 in Los Angeles may enable some combined SAS membership-ISA registration arrangement.

Announcement of this year's SAS Taylor Poster Award competition was forwarded to organizers of 47 poster sessions at this year's SAA meeting in Hawaii. Eight students have subsequently submitted entries.
